The origin of the Resource Management Squadron dates back to Oct 1950, when the 101st Maintenance and Supply Group was formed to better conform to Air Force structure. Less than 6 months later, with the upstart of the Korean War, the 101st Fighter Wing including the Maintenance and Supply Group was called to active duty until 1 Nov 1952 when the wing was once again returned to state control. With this deactivation, the 101st Supply Squadron was formed and placed under the direction of the Maintenance and Supply Group until 1956 when the group was phased out due to the reorganization establishing the 101st Air Defense Wing. Supply was now a separate entity.

Effective 1 Oct 1954, the 101st Supply Squadron and the 101st Motor Vehicle Squadron were reorganized to provide for a recent USAF change in Petroleum, Oil and Lubricants activities. These functions were transferred from the 101st Motor Vehicle Squadron to the 101st Supply Squadron.

Effective 1 Sep 1964, the 101st Fighter Group was reorganized to the Double Deputy System of Command and Management. This was the result of Headquarters, USAP converting all of their USAF organizations to this type of structure. Manning was reduced in the Wing Headquarters to provide general, rather than detailed, supervision and policy guidance to subordinate units. This resulted from a recognition that the geographical separation of the ANG Wing Headquarters from a majority of its subordinate units required the establishment of dual Deputies and Staffs in each Group rather than in the Wing Headquarters. A numerical reduction in the Wing Headquarters was an unavoidable resultant of this geographical factor. This reorganization involved the following actions:

1. Redesignation of the existing Air Base Squadron to a Combat Support Squadron.
2. Inactivation of the existing Material Squadron.
3. Activation of a Supply Squadron.

Supply Squadron was placed under the auspices of the newly formed Combat Support Group, 1 Apr 1976.

Supply Squadron remained intact until 1 July 1979 when Supply became a branch of the newly formed Resource Management Squadron associated with the tri-deputy concept.
