About 150 members strong, the Aircraft Maintenance Squadron is responsible for the delivery of safe, reliable aircraft to the 190th Fighter Squadron and the 189th Airlift Squadron. The unit is primarily an on-equipment maintenance organization, which possesses the people, aircraft, and equipment to meet sortie requirements. The Aircraft Maintenance Squadron is primarily responsible for the launch, service, on-equipment repair, inspection, and recovery of primary mission aircraft. The squadron is organized into sortie generation, weapons, and support flights.
