EMBLEM

On a disc Sable, in base a statistical X-Y axis and data transmission link in the form of a lightning bolt in dexter palewise, two graph line arching to sinister Or, emitting a delta to sinister chief Azure, contrail Gules, within an annulet of the second, all within a narrow Black border. Attached above the disc, a Silver Gray scroll edged with a narrow Black border and inscribed

“FIDELIS MISSIONI” in Black letters. Attached below the disc, a Silver Gray scroll edged with a narrow Black border and inscribed “412TH RANGE SQUADRON” in Black letters. SIGNIFICANCE: Ultramarine blue and Air Force yellow are the Air Force colors. Blue alludes to the sky, the primary theater of Air Force operations. Yellow refers to the sun and the excellence required of Air Force personnel. The statistical X-Y axis and data transmission link in the form of a lightning bolt are engineering symbols which represent research, development and test support of Air Force acquisition programs. The stylized aircraft with thrust tail is emblematic of the parent 412th Test Wing which represents the integration of support for test flight, between the Range Squadron and the 412th Test Wing.
