MOTTO

OPERATIONS

Sea search from Hawaii, Nov 1942-Jan 1943. Combat in Central Pacific, 22-23 Dec 1942 and 20 Jan-c, 4 Feb 1943; and in South and Southwest Pacific, 13 Feb 1943-11 Aug 1945.

Early in 1950 with the international tension mounting and the war clouds on the not too distant horizon, the 122nd Bombardment Squadron, Louisiana Air National Guard was activated. It was assigned to the 4400th Combat Crew Training Group, Langley Air Force Base, Virginia and given the mission of training B-26 combat crews. The 4400th, of which the 122nd was an integral part, trained a record number of crews. These crews flew combat duty in Korea and the training they received with the 122nd equipped them to compile a combat record unparalleled in the history of light bombardment. With the Korean conflict nearing an end the National Guard personnel were released to return to civilian life and were replaced with the Korean combat seasoned veterans. The unit was redesignated as the 424th Bombardment Squadron Light assigned to the 4400th Tactical Bombardment Group (Training). The 424th was now assigned the dual mission of being combat capable and continuing the training of B-26 combat crew.
