

805 OPERATIONS SQUADRON

Within this squadron there are five different flights which together combine efforts in completing the mission assigned to the 805th Operations Squadron.

The Training Flight prepares, puts into action, and supervises all the ground training within the 4th Air Division. This includes the Tactical Wings as well as the Air Base Group personnel who receive training in such phases as survival, synthetic trainers, special weapons and Judo from this flight.

The Base Operations Flight controls all incoming and outgoing aircraft. Flight training for all flying personnel attached to the Air Base Group is another function of this flight. In addition the flight is set up to schedule administrative airlifts, operate the foreign clearing station, minimize hazards to flights in the local area and conduct Flying Safety activities for the Air Base Group.

The Base Maintenance flight provides aircraft maintenance for all administrative aircraft assigned to the 4th Air Division, services transient aircraft and within capabilities, performs maintenance on transient planes.

The Communications Flight has operational control of the Base Telephone System and the Communications Maintenance Section. Six operators handle the plugs leading to the numerous phones on an around-the-clock basis.

The photographic Flight processes aerial film in support of the Tactical Wings and does all administrative photography as required by base units.
