OPERATIONS

The activation of AFRES initial military training unit, the 8050th Military Training Squadron, is a milestone in establishing yet another mission in support of the regular Air Force. This new unit is collocated with active force units at the Air Force Military Training Center, Lackland AFB, Texas. If mobilized in a contingency or wartime, the 8050th would come under the operational control of Air Training Command, which is responsible for the training of military personnel throughout the Air Force. Peacetime management of the 8050th is the responsibility of 10th Air Force, which will oversee a small number of air reserve technicians and 93 reservists. Programmed to be operational in fiscal year 1984, the 8050th will serve alongside their ATC counterparts in training active force, Air National Guard and our command's enlistees as they begin their military careers. We're proud to have a part in this important mission.
