EMBLEM

Azure, in sinister looking to dexter an eagle couped at the shoulder Argent, garnished Gules, detailed Sable, beaked and eyed Or, surmounted in dexter base by a globe on its axis Silver Gray, gridlined of the fourth, environed by a contrail to dexter of the sixth, terminating in a delta of the third, in dexter chief a compass star of the fifth, all within a diminished bordure of the last. Attached below the shield, a White scroll edged with a narrow Yellow border and inscribed "GEOSPATIAL & SIGNATURES INTEL GP" in Blue letters. SIGNIFICANCE: Ultramarine blue and Air Force yellow are the Air Force colors. Blue alludes to the sky, the primary theater of Air Force operations. Yellow refers to the sun and the excellence required of Air Force personnel. The globe depicts the Group's support of the Air Force mission of global reach and power, adorned with the flight symbol. It signifies the analysis that enables assessments of current and future weapons system capabilities and technologies. The eagle, with its keen eye for discerning slight details from great distances, represents the United States' ability to persistently surveil environments around the globe. The eagle's gaze towards the compass symbolizes the Group's multi-intelligence integration mission and the unit analysts' vigilance and perseverance at home and abroad.
