EMBLEM

The insignia of the Army Air Forces School of Air Evacuation was a dark blue disc with two honey bees whose bodies were or and sable with argent wings bearing stars, carrying a brown litter all in front of a cloud argent. SIGNIFICANCE: Blue and gold are the Air Corps colors. The honey bees, helmeted and wearing red cross armbands are indicative of the industry displayed by the personnel of the organization. The litter is symbolic of evacuation of the sick and wounded, the cloud indicative of the area in which the mission was carried out. Designed by Mrs. Don Rider (nee: Carter)
